Dear Brian

Thank you for sharing your vision to introduce The Play.

The opportunity for young individuals to engage in performing arts programs are profound and can provide a positive impact on their personal growth, creativity, and overall well-being.

From developing valuable skills such as teamwork, discipline, and confidence to gaining exposure to diverse cultures and artistic expression, community performing arts programs can provide essential life skills that will serve these young people well beyond the stage. Moreover, the arts have a unique ability to foster a sense of belonging and pride within our community, bringing people together from different backgrounds and experiences.

Your commitment and enthusiasm to deliver initiatives to benefit and support young people is commendable.

Yours sincerely
