“THE PLAY” – A POWERFUL JOURNEY OF HEALING, RESILIENCE AND REDEMPTION

Thank you for contacting me regarding your valuable theatre project, “The Play”. I am happy to give my endorsement.

As a teacher and an advocate for The Arts and music as a core subject in our Curriculum, I believe your musical promises to raise awareness about the concerning issues facing our youths and will give courage and light to those who will empathise with the characters and story.

Your expertise, qualifications and commitment towards working with vulnerable youths, stemming from successful initiatives already undertaken such as the “The Hay Patrollers”, should be fully supported. “The Play” offers a powerful insight into the social complexities our children deal with every day that we don’t notice or that are often ignored. It will allow students to convey a message in their own words and give solutions that can be applied with a positive ripple effect throughout our schools and communities.

“The Play” has the potential to transform feelings of hopelessness to ones of empowerment, acceptance and connection, which is what our teachers and education system strives to deliver every day. It compliments our school Curriculum and highlights issues of basic humanity via the use of entertainment, drama and music – all which have the ability to create feelings of belonging that we desperately crave as a vital part of our overall wellbeing.

I look forward to seeing The Play come to life in 2025 and wish you, the cast and crew every success.

Kind regards
